Thinking Out Loud

(U. S. Navy Recruiting Bureau)

NAVY TRAINING COURSES

One of the most striking developments in education during the past ten years has been the tremendous growth of part time schools, evening and correspondence schools, extension courses and other kinds of instruction for men and women who are gainfully employed. States, cities, colleges and many business corporations of the country are spending millions of dollars on education for people who want to earn and learn at the same time.

The chief reason for the success and growth of this kind of instruction is that the studying of any trade or vocation and the obtaining of working experience in the same line, at the same time, is an almost ideal combination for achieving success. The man who can follow his chosen line of work and at the same time continue studies that lead to advancement, obtains a practical knowledge that is hard to get any other way.

The U. S. Navy made use of this method of developing highly skilled men many years before this type of schooling was widely used in civil life. Thus the Navy has long been recognized as offering opportunities for patriotic young men to receive valuable trade experience with no expense to themselves and in a shorter time than they could obtain the same experience in a civil occupation.

Training in the Navy begins on the day the new recruit enters the service and does not end until the day he leaves. The thousands of men who complete their terms of service each year and return to civilian life include men of every degree of experience and skill. Naturally, other men must be trained to take their places in the navy.

Training courses conducted by the Navy Department are an important part of the Navys training system. These courses are not designed to take the place of practical experience, but enable the seaman to learn more from his every day working experience by giving him the practical and theoretical information that will help him most in learning the work necessary for a rating (status of Petty Officer in any given trade.) Navy Training Courses are prepared in plain language, are well illustrated and include mathematics, physics and other general subjects required in the given trade or vocation chosen by the seaman. Combined with practical experince, these courses given men the opportunity to prepare themselves for higher ranking in the Navy Service as well as for specialized work in later civilian life.

Navy Training Courses are studied during active duty and are issued without charge to enlisted men through their commanding officers. Study is carried on under the direction of officers on board ships or at Naval Stations on land. All necessary assistance is furnished the bluejackets who wish to improve themselves by this means. Schooling in more than fifty technical jobs and vocations is offered to young patriotic men who join our new "Two Ocean" Navy. This free schooling is valued at hundreds of dollars and sailors receive regular U. S. Navy pay as they learn.

Yuba Co. Council Of Defense Described

CAMPTONVILLE, Dec. 1. — The first public meeting in Yuba County in the interests of national defense was held Friday evening in the auditorium of the local Masonic Hall for the purpose of explaining to the local people the Yuba County Council of Defense, a recently organized part of county government.

The program started with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America" by the audience, Alvin C. Molen, accompanist. The meeting was presided over by Judge A. M. Cleveland. The main speaker of the evening was Roy C. Donnally, manager of the State Employment Service, and Secretary and Co-ordinator of the Yuba County Defense Council, of Marysville. who explained the organization of the defense council, its personnel, function, and duties in time of emergency in either peace times or in war.

Miss Maud M. Ellis, director of the Yuba County Welfare Department, followed on the program with a discussion of the womens part in this set up, and spoke of some of the plans of the council with respect to clinical medical and dental work.

Clarence Galligan, Commander of the American Legion, at Marysville, and Chief Air Warden of Yuba County, gave a talk on the observation posts and air warning alarms and observation which will be given an experimental test this month.

Following the meeting the local Womans Club which sponsored the affair, served refreshments. A very instructive and interesting evening was spent by the large crowd of local citizens in attendance.

DIM THE LIGHTS

Every motorist can do his part toward cutting accidents, by dropping his light beams when driving at night, when meeting another car, states the Public Safety Department of the National Automobile Club. "Be courteous and safe; obey the law and dim the lights when meeting other cars at night."

Diphtheria Toxoid For Children and Adults

Mrs. Isabel Hefelfinger, Nevada City school health nurse announces that the second dose of toxoid for diptheria will be given school children who have already received the first dose, on Friday, December 5th at nine o'clock. Dr. W. W. Reed will administer the dose and be assisted by Mrs. Hefelfinger, Miss Frances Clink, the Red Cross nurse and Miss Laura Louck, Nevada County health nurse.

Members of the elementary PTA, Mrs. L. Lageson, Mrs. Clyde Gwin, Mrs. Edwin Berger, Mrs. Warren Brown, Mrs. Morton White and Mrs. Beth Wilson will also assist.

In three or four months a follow up treatment with the Schick Test will be given to ascertain if immunity has been attained.

Mrs. Hefelfinger states that in recent years there has been an increase of diptheria among adults, due probably to the shifting of populations. She also stated that that parents have had their children immuized through the school clinics.

In view of the fact of the increase of diptheria in recent years, among adults, the test will be offered to adults for a very nominal charge, the exact amount to be announced later and it is hoped that the adults of the community will avail themselves of the opportunity.

The immunization work is carried on through the co-operation of the City Council, the physicians of the community and the Parent teachers association.

Klondike Trail Bridge Has Been Completed

Frank Baird of Goodyear Bar, bridge foreman for the Tahoe National Forest has just completed building the Klondike Trail bridge across the North Fork of the South Fork of the Yuba River at Sierra City connecting this town via the trail with the Henness Pass Road, advises District Ranger Frank Delaney of the Downieville Ranger District. This bridge, the construction of which started in October of 1940 with CCC labor, was finished last week by Baird and forest guard Harry Hyde of Halls Ranch Guard Station.

The Klondike Trail Bridge cost aproximately $1,000 and replaces an old bridge washed out during the December 1937 flood. At the present time the bridge is open for foot travel, but an additional expenditure of approximately $250 will be needed to build approaches on each side of the river to make it passable for saddle and pack stock.

"This bridge is well worth the time any forest visitor to look over while going through Sierra Valley," states Delaney.

First Aid Training Credited With Saving Life Of Miner

The first aid training taken by Charles Kinkel is credited with the saving of the life of H. D. Goddard, Kinkle's mining partner, on the 2,070 foot level in the Idaho-Maryland Mine.

Goddard's jugular vein was cut by a piece of ore which fell from the wall of the tunnel while he was looking upward. Kinkle, through his first aid training, knew immediate action was necessary to save his partner's life, so he pinched the vein with his fingers and held it to stop the excessive flow of blood.

Goddard was hoisted to the surface and taken to the Jones Memorial Hospital where the wound was stitched. He left for his home to recuperate.

900 New Telephone Books For Nevada City

Delivery of a new telephone directory by The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company was started on Monday, December 1, it was stated today by Emree Hoss manager for the company.

A total of 101,800 copies of the new book, which covers Sacramento, Amador, Butte, El Dorado, Nevada, Placer, Sutter, Yolo and Yuba counties, have been printed. Of this total, approximately 900 copies will be distributed in Nevada City at this time.

"In making up this book," said Hoss "more than one million sheets of paper, size 37 1-2 by 46 inches, have been used. Each sheet this size contains 32 pages of directory listings.

"Five huge presses have been running day and night, including Sundays and holidays, from November 10 to November 30, to produce this directory. Approximately 121,000 pounds of paper were used.

"This is only one of the 2,200 different directories published by the Bell System each year," Hoss added, "representing about 30,000,000 books.

"Since the planning and production of these directories is an important part of the Bell System's constant effort to make telephone service more pleasing and satisfactory to the user, they are the subject of continuous study by our company."

Weekend In San Francisco—

Mrs. Oscar Odegaard and son, Jim, spent the weekend in San Francisco.

Eight Feet Of Sidewalk Blown Out By Explosion

A series of gas explosions on Main Street, Friday afternoon, was reportedly due to a break in a Pacific Gas and Electric Company service line. The break was caused by a city storm sewer sinking down against the pipe.

The explosions started when Ernest Young, city employee, struck his rake against a rock while raking leaves at York and Main Streets. A spark from the metal ignited the gas. The other explosions, up and down Main Street, occurred almost simultaneously. Gas from the leaking pipe line had penetrated to all sections of the storm sewer on Main Street.

An explosion in front of the Alice Cooper home blew out about eight feet of sidewalk. A boy, who was walking up the sidewalk a short distance away, was so frightened by the explosion and sudden upheaval of the sidewalk he ran away as fast as his legs could carry him and his identity was never learned.

A portion of the sewer at Court and Main Streets was blown out by one explosion.

Herbert Hallett, city superintendent of streets and a P. G. and E. crew worked until late Friday night in repairing the damaged pipes and restoring normal service.

For Present City Will Operate With Only Two Police Officers

Chief of Police Max Solaro said today for the present Nevada City will have only two olicemen beside himself.

J. J. Jackson and James Allen are the policemen. Each work eight hour shifts with Chief Solaro taking the other eight hour shift. Previously, the city force consisted of three policemen, each on an eight hour shift, while Solaro handled the fire department and supervised the general police work in the office.

Solaro will continue to handle his regular duties in addition to his daily eight hour beat. James Williams, local constable, will work on Jackson's and Allen's weekly day off.

Promotional Program For New Year Discussed By Highway 20 Association

Forty five members, officers and directors of the Tahoe-Pacific Highway 20 Association from Nevada, Yuba, Sutter, Colusa, Lake and Mendocino Counties, met in Nice, Lake County, Friday night and made tentative plans for the 1942 promotional program along the cross state route, which has its eastern entrance near Emigrant Gap.

Cooperation in the winter sports of the Tahoe region was pledged by the membership and a special meeting to formulate a winter sports program will be held in Grass Valley in February.

The election of officers was deferred until December 12th when the officers and directors of the association will hold a special meeting in Williams, Colusa County.

Louis Jago, representing the Redwood Highway Association, addressed the group on cooperation in travel promotions in 1942.

Nelson, Worshipful Master, George E. Dixon, Senior Warden, Eugene E. Dixon, Junior Warden, Joseph P. Pendola, Treasurer and A. M. Cleveland, secretary. In stallation of the newly elected officers will be held this coming month.

SUFFERS EYE INFECTION

Rolland Garwood, well known local youth, is recovering in the Community Hospital in Grass Valley from on eye infection. The infection developed from a piece of steel which lodged in the eye.

Toys For Unfortunate Needed By Local Fire Department

Most Nevada City families will be able to provide their children with toys on Christmas Day but there are some families not so fortunate.

The Nevada City Fire Department each year attempts to see that under priviliged children at least have a happy Christmas.

In order to carry out its plans, the local fire department is in need of toys. The toys need not be in perfect condition. Max Solaro, who is mechanically minded, can repair broken toys and a coat of paint makes them as good as new.

So, if in your household you happen to have any discarded or broken toys the local fire department would very much appreciate them for some poor unfortunate child.

The drive officially has closed and the headquarters in the city hall vacated.

Fourteen Mile Power Line From Pike City To Poverty Hill Completed

"The power transmission line from Pike City to Poverty Hill, a distance of fourteen miles, installed to run a bucket dredge to the Poverty Hill Mining Properties, is now in operation," states F. W. Meggers of the Camptonville ranger district. During all of the construction of this fourteen mile line on which there were employed eighty to one hundred and fifty men, only one fire occurred and it was due to carelessness of one of the workmen in disposing of a burning cigarette, advises Meggers.

Mr. Storrs, engineer in charge of the project, discharged the entire crew of eight men from the particular camp where the fire occurred. Other crew members were given stern warning and were required to carry tobacco in tins. Periodically Engineer Storrs inspected the tins for burning matches and cigarette stubs which he had instructed the men to place in the tobacco cans and not to be thrown in the brush. The result of this precautionary measure was that no other fires occurred on this entire fourteen mile project. Ranger Meggers is of the opinion that some kind of a record is made by this.

GET OUT OF DEBT

One resolution adopted by the American Bankers Association at its recent annual convention, is of wide interest to the public.

"Bankers are aiding the defense program by loans for the erection of defense plans, and for the purchase of raw materials and the payment of wages in the defense industries," it said. "Such loans have reached huge sums and continue to mount.

"This is a time for liberal lending for defense and for conservative lending for all other purposes. This is a time when in their own interest, people generally should be paying their debts instead of borrowing more."

In other words, part of the banker's job is to help people get out of debt, rather than into it, whenever possible. The tremendously increased burden of taxation, coupled with the rapid jump in the cost of living, makes it necessary for the average family to hold its debts to the minimum. The banks are following the policy of wisdom when they loan for all necessary purposes, but discourage borrowing which can be avoided.

TUBERCULOSIS IS COSTLY

Eminent authorities in the United States tell us that tuberculosis cost the federal government a billion dollars after the first World War. And the government is out to cut that cost by keeping tuberculosis out of the army.

In recent surveys made on the costs of this disease, the reports show that the cost per individual case is $4.000 for diagnosis, treatment and wages lost. In other words, the 4,000 deaths from tuberculosis in California last year cost approximately 16 million dollars.

Tax money must provide hospitals for these cases; it must provide public health facilities for suppressing the contagion.

These and other facts and figures concerning the costs of tuberculosis are convincing arguments for the purchase of Christmas Seals. The money so derived is used to find cases of tuberculosis early while treatment can be effective and before the victim has endangered the lives of others. The seals furnish money for X-rays and tuberculosis tests and for follow-up of the cases and to bring to treatment those who have been infected.

Everything done to control the disease will cut down the amount of money spent each year to keep the disease from our homes. It is a community project which means lives and money saved in a time when America is looking to its people for national defense and public welfare.

POLITICAL PAROLES

A shocking political maneuver, as bald and as cowardly as any yet pulled off by the Olson administration, is the obvious and only explanation for the state parole board's outrageous decision yesterday to open up the prison gates and let Earl King, Ernest Ramsey and Frank Conner, convicted Alameda shipboard killers, walk out scot free.

The answer plainly is that Governor Olson lacked the courage to stand up to the pressure artists in the CIO who have been demanding a pardon for the three labor union beef squad members, and he also lacked the courage to take the responsibility for outraging public opinion by yielding to the pardon demands.

And so he took the easy, political, buck-passing way out by letting his parole board take the rap.

These three men were sentenced to serve 20 years for the conspiracy murder of George W. Alberts during the 1936 waterfront strike. They have served five years.

Paroles have been denied them before this, and it should be quite obvious now that the two most recent appointees of the governor—Chairman Booth Goodman of Oakland and Archie M. Lyons of Modesto—took this means to attempt to get the governor off a hot political spot. The third member of the parole board, Joseph H. Stephen of Sacramento, consistently has been opposed to granting freedom to King, Ramsey and Conner.

The reason the governor took this roundabout way to free these three small-potato labor officials should be perfectly apparent. The governor wants to be re-elected, he is afraid of alienating any more of his labor support, and yet he knew the reaction that a pardon would bring from a public that is growing sick and tired of seeing labor thugs literally get away with murder.

Pheasant, Quail Season Extended

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 1.—(UP)—The state fish and game commission has authorized extension of the pheasant and quail hunting season in game management areas from December 31 to January 20.

The commission ordered managers of commercial hunting farms to keep at least 5 per cent of their licensed areas in a wild state.

LEARNED TRADE IN NAVY

A questionnaire sent out recently to former Navy men, picked at random, showed that 86 per cent were working in skilled trades which they had learned in the U. S. Navy.

PAPER FOR DEFENSE

A skeptical public asks how defense can cause a paper shortage, but a few facts from the National Trade Paper Association should make the case clear. During the next years, 120,000 tons of paper pulp will be needed for munitions; 30,000 pounds of blue print paper for each battleship built; 1 million pounds of cover paper for soldiers' hand books; 11,000 tons of paper for shell containers. In a word fragile paper builds mighty defenses!

Mrs. W. J. Charles and Thomas Cameron spent the week end in Nevada City visiting their sister Mrs. A. C. Larsen who has been quite ill for some time.

WINTER DEER MIGRATION NOW AT ITS PEAK

The winter deer migration on the Bloomfield District of the Tahoe National Forest is now at its peak, according to District Ranger Lewis of the Tahoe National Forest. With the advent of cold weather the deer population of the Bowman Lake country have begun their long trek to the foothills. The deer move down to the vicinity of Graniteville and there split into two routes of migration. One route continued on down the ridge through North Bloomfield and the other down the Gaston Ridge to Washington—thence to the Junction House and down Deer Creek into the foothills, Lewis states.

Many deer can now be observed at night traveling these two routes to their winter ranges. Motorists are especially cautioned to exercise care when traversing the roads at night in these areas. This is especially true on Highway 20 between the White Cloud Public Camp and Skillmon Flat Camp where the migratory deer cross the Highway. The danger of strkiing these deer is also present in the daytime and already 4 or 5 deer have been killed this year in this manner, the impact causing considerable damage and danger to the motorist. It has been noted that the deer migrate in groups ranging from 3 to 10, this adds considerably to the hazard to the motorist as often times when one or two animals cross the road, the motorist does not realize that additional animals are likely to jump in front of the vehicle.

The superstitious are momentarily expecting another eruption from Mount Lassen, northern California's famous volcano. Its last outburst coinciding with the outbreak of World War No. 1 they contend the volcano is a barometer of world strife and should have gone on another rampage when the latest struggle of armies developed over yonder.

The only recently active volcano in the U. S. A., Lassen's last eruption occured in May of 1914 and rumbled and roared for seven years, spewing lava, mud and rocks over large surrounding areas that have been taking this kind of punishment for countless centuries. Impressive as that activity was, it was feeble when compared to the volcano's violent past.

Today no plume of smoke hangs over the slumbering peak. It juts a ragged cone ten and a half thousand feet high into clear skies, rising majectically from low forested hills that have become a poular vacation playground. Throughout these hills is found much evidence of the turbulence still existing under the reak and the surrounding Lassen Volcanic National Park.

At Bumpas Hell—a fantastic area of highly colored rocks—mud pots bubble and boiling pools steam, reminiscent of the displays that have helped to make Yellowstone famous.

Entering the park from the north you drive through one of the results of nature's violent outbursts. Visible from the highway are Chaos Jumbles, a wilderness of blocks of rocks thrown together in mangled confusion. Formed only two hundred years ago, this si a spectacular result of turbulent disorder, from which rise the bristling pinnacles and angular projections of Chaos Crags, thousands of tons of rocks tossed around with the greatest of ease when the volcano was more active. Almost barren, the landscape is rendered even more desolate by the few hardy stunted trees that continue to fight for existence.

The park abounds in areas of contrasting beauty colorful heaps of lava and volcanic ash mingling with the green of forest and meadow and the blue of numerous lakes. Of the latter the two most interesting are Butte and Snag Lakes, spread over the eastern end of the ark, and once a single sheet of water. A comparatively recent and gigantic flow of lava marched down to the lake and neatly cut it in two.

The devastated area took the most punishment during Lassen's last eruption. In 1914 a pleasantly forested and meadowed sweep of low country, by 1921 it had been completely wrecked, exemplifying the forceful effects of what an active volcano can do when awakened after years of peaceful slumber. Great denosits of mud, debris and large boulders cover this once undisturbed ground. But often what nature ruins she immediately sets out to repair. A sheen of small trees and the shrubs are beginning to clothe the naked ground and temper its drab appearance.

With its expected eruption long overdue Lassen is still quietly ignoring the march of Hitler's legions. But you never can tell. Though calm and serene today, it might be a raging monster tomorrow. Volcanos are unpredictable.

Grand Champion Steer From Grand National Exposition

Here is the Hereford steer adjudged Grand Champion at the first annual Grand National Livestock Exposition which achieved phenomenal success in San Francisco's Cow Palace, November 15 to 22, shown with owner and exhibitor, Evan S. Pillsbury II, of Buellton, Cal. At the Exposition's great auction of fat stock, the steer was sold to Safeway Stores at $1.10 for each of its 946 pounds, or $1040.60 in all. Pillsbury left immediately after Exposition for Chicago to attend convention of American Hereford Breeders' Association, of which he is Western Regional Director, in effort to make 1942 National Hereford Show part of next year's Grand National.

NOTES FROM STATE FISH AND GAME REPORT

Glenn, Colusa, Sutter, Butte, Yuba, Placer and Nevada counties. Duck hunting continues poor in the valley area. Many ducks are here but they are night feeders and remain on the refuge areas during the day. Heavy north winds last Saturday brought a day of good goose hunting in Sutter and Butte counties. While the pheasant kill was heavy, there appears to be a very good breeding stock left over in this area.

School Health Nurse Tells Of Fight Against Tuberculosis

The benefits derived from funds obtained from the annual sale of Christmas seals in Nevada County were explained to Elementary Parent Teachers Association members by Mrs. Isabel Hefelfinger, health nurse, at Friday's meeting.

The address by Mrs. Hefelfinger enlightened PTA members on the work of the Nevada County Tuberculosis Association in its fight against the disease.

Mrs. Hefelfinger said the county Tuberculosis Association was organized in 1934 and in that year for the first time the stamps were sent through the mail. In the spring of 1935, Mrs. Hefelfiner said, the first skin testing took place in the schools of Nevada City, Grass Valley and Truckee.

During 1936 and 1937 some active cases were found. Physicians were at a loss as to what to do with the cases found as there was no provision for the care of any indigent cases of tuberculosis and the county hospital did not accept them.

Mrs. Irene Carlson came up from San Francisco and with Mrs. Hefelfinger went through the death records of Nevada County and found that in 1934 ten persons died from tuberculosis.

Mrs. Hefelfinger told her listeners that in 1935, seven persons died from the disease; 12 persons in 1936 and 12 persons in 1937.

Jack Mann, chairman of the county association, appeared with Mrs. Carlson before the Nevada County Board of Supervisors and asked that the county subscribe to Weimar Sanitarium Association. As this was a very expensive venture, Mrs. Hefelfinger stated, the supervisors gave it lengthy consideration. Jack Mann gave hours of his time to persuade the supervisors to accept the plan and in July 1937 the county formally entered the Weimar Sanitarium Association and asked for 12 beds. Mrs. Hefelfinger said the beds were quickly filled and have never been empty.

In describing the other activities of the TB association, Mrs. Hefelfinger pointed out skin tests have been given to school students of the county each year since 1935 with the exception of 1937 when no skin testing was done.

In that time 12 children have been found in Nevada City schools with open tuberculosis. During that time there have been 1,000 skin tests and approximately 500 X-rays have been taken.

At the present time ,Mrs. Hefelfinger stated, there are approximately 35 under special supervision.

The meeting was adjudged one of the most interesting ever held by the local PTA group. Those attending were also highly interested in an address by Mrs. Pauline Throne, PTA school lunch supervisor of Nevada, Placer and Sacramento Counties.

Great interest was also taken in the doll collection of Mrs. Miles Coughlin, which was on display in the auditorium.

SUPERVISORS IN SESSION

The Nevada County Board of Supervisors opened their December sessions today. The supervisors are expected to confine all of today and part of tomorrow in the payment of claims before taking up any new business matters.

SUIT AGAINST DENAK ESTATE STARTED HERE

Mrs. Annie Bradley, owner of the National Hotel in North San Juan, and employer of the late Mike Denak, has started a suit against Lila M. Champion, administratrix of Denak's estate, asking delivery to her of 100 head of cattle, a cattle brand and an automobile which were listed in the estate.

Mrs. Bradley in the suit contends that through an agreement between her and Denak, the cattle and the brand had been transferred to Denak's name and that Denak was to supervise the raising and selling of the stock and to turn the proceeds over to her. It wa spointed out in the action that Denak for years had been employed by the plaintiff and her late husband and that Denak managed the National Hotel in North San Juan for her after Bradley's death.

Mrs. Bradley asserts in the suit that Denak had always recognized the fact that the cattle and the brand belonged to her and with that in mind had drawn up a document on last October, transferring the cattle and the brand to her but because the instrument was not entirely in his handwriting and witnessed by only one person it was not a valid will.

The suit sets forth that the car listed in the Denak estate was purchased with the consent of Mrs. Bradley with her funds for the business use of both Denak and Mrs. Bradley.
